However, things started to change a few years later. Roy began to work long hours, and he was often away on business trips. Toni felt like she was raising the children on her own. She was also starting to feel like Roy was taking her for granted.

One day, Toni confronted Roy about her feelings. She told him that she was unhappy, and she asked him if he still loved her. Roy was shocked. He had never thought of their marriage as anything but happy. He told Toni that he did love her, and he promised to change his ways.

Roy did try to change, but it was too little, too late. Toni had already made up her mind. She filed for divorce, and their marriage was over.

Roy was devastated. He had lost the love of his life, and he didn't know what to do. He eventually met someone else, but he never forgot Toni. He always loved her, and he always hoped that one day they would find their way back to each other.

Years later, Roy and Toni ran into each other at a coffee shop. They were both surprised to see each other, but they were also happy. They talked for hours, and they realized that they still had feelings for each other.

Roy and Toni started dating again, and they quickly fell back in love. They got married a few years later, and they have been together ever since. Their second marriage is even stronger than their first, and they are both grateful for the second chance they have been given.
