The Fermors are a quirky and lovable family. Patrick, the father, is a renowned author and traveler. His wife, Joan, is a talented artist. Their three children, Paddy, Artemis, and Christabel, are full of energy and enthusiasm. And then there's the dog, Max, who adds his own unique brand of chaos to the mix.

The Fermors' journey begins in Italy, where they spend a year exploring the country's rich history and culture. They visit Rome, Florence, and Venice, and marvel at the beauty of the Italian countryside. From Italy, the Fermors travel to France, where they spend time in Paris and the Loire Valley. They meet interesting people, learn about the French Revolution, and sample the delights of French cuisine.

The Fermors' final destination is Germany, where they visit Berlin, Munich, and the Bavarian Alps. They explore the country's history and culture, and learn about the German people. Along the way, the Fermors have many adventures. They get lost in the Italian Alps, have their car stolen in France, and are chased by a bear in Germany. But through it all, they maintain their sense of humor and their love for each other.

Travels with My Family to Say Nothing of the Dog is a classic memoir that will appeal to readers of all ages. It is a funny, heartwarming, and thought-provoking book about the importance of family, adventure, and the power of the human spirit.
